

LION TALES

At our April meeting we dressed the part for a hobo convention and invited John Stettler and Fred Dorman from the Recreational Railroad Coalition Historical Society. John gave a very information PowerPoint presentation of the history and preservation of the Amador Central Railroad and its current use for recreational railroading. Fred trailered his motorcar for us to see. As co-owners, the RRCHS and the Amador County Historical Society are working together to tell the history and preservation of the railroad. Each year over Memorial Day weekend they put on the Rail Fair which features rides on the rails, many exhibits including model railroads, antique cars, trucks, and gas engines as well as vendors and other activities. Visit their website at www.rch.us for more information.

You can't have a convention without a King and a couple of Queens!
